

Name of game - Doomsday

The main character - James Halfred, was a regular guy who ended up dead but had woken up in a coffin. James was an electrician who has sadly passed by getting electrocuted by a Powerline, he was dead for almost 2 weeks but has awakened in a coffin inside of the wall. James can run throughout all directions, pick up items and even has the opportunity to make real life decisions in games. Example: when he has to stay quiet, he has the chance to move around monsters when he seriously needs to, and can also run and hide from them. James's weight limitation for items is 8 items at most. Another Limitation to James is that he can't kill anyone only hide and run

Goal of Game - Find the safe bunker where the world has been destroyed and is trashed and has monsters around the world. The player wins by finding the bunker and being safe, he dies by getting killed by monsters or by hunger.

Scoring -James can earn points by making the right decision, making his way out of building, finding items he needs, gaining health back, and bonus points for making it away from monsters. 5pts = Finding an item, 10pts = making it out of a room, 12pts = making the best decision, 15 pts - hiding from monsters, 20 pts = Running from monsters and living, 2pts = regaining health?

The World: The World is all orange and red, the air in the city is very hard to breathe. An alien ship has crashed on this world and has taken over and most of the population has been abducted. Buildings crashed down, cars broke and rusted, hills and bridges are all over the place. James will be able to move North, South, East West, but he will also be able to climb over things like jumping and crawling. He can also push, pull, throw, catch, press, dig, drink, eat, etc.

Interactions - James will come across other people trying to end with the same goal, make it to the bunker. Sometimes, he will get tasks from other people to get items in the game to help him reach his goal to get to the bunker, others will try and get him to get caught and be deceased.
